MAY TAKE WEEK TO GET JURORS IN LINCOLN CASE

Insanity to Be the Defense of Lawyer-Slayer, Hint.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Geneva, Ill., Jan. 16.—As examination began today of the jurors summoned to try Warren J. Lincoln for the murder of his wife and her brother Byron Shoup, counsel for state and defense expressed the fear that it would require a week to get the twelve men who will decide whether the lawyer-florist is to go free or be punished by hanging or prison sentence. Of the 75 in the first jury panel 23 asked to be excused on nominal grounds and almost all of them indicated that they had formed an opinion. "I am afraid," Dr. Harvey Gussul, of counsel for Lincoln said, "that it will take fully a week if not more to get a jury."

First questions put to the jurors by counsel for Lincoln indicated that they are going to rely on an insanity defense to free the man who placed in a concrete block he made, the heads of his wife and her brother.

"Have you any prejudice against insanity as a defense?" and "If it is established that Warren J. Lincoln was insane at the time he killed, you would not find him guilty of murder would you?" were queries every prospective juror was called upon to answer at the outset of their examination. The juror who admitted prejudice against insanity as a defense or would not free a man who had killed while insane, was immediately excused for cause.

Lincoln did not act put out by the indicated insanity defense nor by intimations that his family was one in which there were feeble minded and demented. This though he has maintained always that he is a rational being in this stock—among other things a third cousin of the martyred president.

"I am glad they have gone to bat," he said. "Any jury that hears my story will get me free."

Lincoln did not testify last November when a Kane County jury passed upon his mental condition and held that he was sane at this time.

He insists that when he takes the witness chair he will tell how "he was betrayed and that will explain the mad act of the moment of a normal man."

The first question asked prospective jurors by State's Attorney C. L. Abbott was "are you opposed to the death penalty?" An affirmative reply led to the excuse of the juror Henry Anderson of Carpenterville, Ill., on being asked as to his attitude said: "We've got to hang some of these killers. It is the only way we can stop what is going on." He was accepted by the state.

Says Prohibition Has

Given Five Big Benefits

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 16.—(By The Associated Press)—Five important benefits which he declares prohibition has brought to the people of Illinois since the beginning of enforcement of the 18th amendment to the constitution five years ago, were outlined here today by O. C. Christgau, editor of the Illinois edition of the American Issue.

Prohibition has proved itself a success so emphatically that the possibility of the people returning to the old system is daily growing less, Christgau says, but deplors the "charitableness, weak patriotism and poor sportsmanship of persons, papers and even some preachers who have attacked conscientious officials for doing their sworn duty."

NEGRO SLAYER ILLINOIS GIRL HANGED TODAY

Hess Connors Died on Gallows at Mound City Prison.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Mound City, Ill., Jan. 16.—Hess Connors, 22 year old Cairo negro today paid with his life for the murder on the night of July 21 last of Miss Daisy Wilson, pretty 18 year old Villa Ridge girl. The trap was sprung at 10:20 a. m. and he was pronounced dead 23 minutes later. As he walked firmly to the scaffold from the county jail, Connors thanked Sheriff L. K. Hudson for his kind treatment and as the noose was adjusted declared: "The Lord has forgiven me and I hope the people have."

Fred Hale, negro, his accomplice, was sentenced to life imprisonment.

A reprieve had been granted Connors from the first execution date, October 16. News of the crime aroused the countryside and two negro suspects were saved from lynching only by the efforts of Sheriff Hudson and F. H. Moreland, a Ku Klux Klan organizer, whose public prayer quieted the mob until the arrival on the scene of a company of Illinois National Guardsmen.

Ten men were indicted in connection with the rioting. Harry Winters was fined $100 and sentenced to 30 days in jail yesterday, while four others were dismissed, because of lack of evidence against them. Five await trial.

DRYS SEEK LAW TO GIVE STATE AN ORGANIZATION

Want Assembly to Enact Law Creating a Com- mission.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—(By The Associated Press)—Passage by the Illinois 64th general assembly of a bill creating the office of state prohibition commissioner with three assistants and power to employ 25 investigators will be sought by the Illinois Anti-Saloon League, State Superintendent F. B. Ebberts told the executive board of the organization here today on the fifth anniversary of the enforcement of the federal prohibition act.

The proposed bill would make the work of the prohibition commissioner state wide and give state prohibition law officers authority to go into every county of the state, obtain evidence, make arrests and initiate prosecutions. The work of prosecuting all such cases, however, would be left to the state's attorneys.

Dry forces in the legislature also will oppose any attempt by the wet contingent to repeal the present state law enforcement act or to memorialize congress to modify the present national definition of what constituted an intoxicating beverage.

"County officers are often unable to obtain proper evidence against bootleggers and moonshiners," Ebberts said. "A state wide prohibition department would be a valuable aid in obtaining such evidence and in cleaning up numerous bad spots which exist in the state because of the inability of county officials to cope with the situation."

CHICAGO IS URGED TO INSTALL UP-TO- DATE SEWER PLANT

Great Lakes Harbor Asso- ciation Protests Water Diversion.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Cleveland, Jan. 16.—The Secretary of War is requested to require Chicago to install a modern system of sewage disposal in the Chicago district in a resolution adopted by the Great Lakes Harbor Association here today. The resolution protests against any congressional action diverting lake water for this purpose.

The resolution is:

With an astounding disregard for the rights of her neighbors and in defiance of all precepts of law and justice, under the pretext that the sanitary welfare of that city made the diversion of water for sewage disposal necessary, Chicago has for twenty years been abstracting the waters of the Great Lakes in colossal quantities.

This abstraction of water has caused the lowering of the levels of the lakes to the injury thereof, and the raising of the levels of the Illinois river to the injury of the land owners of that region. The sewage which Chicago is thus carrying into the Illinois river is polluting the waters of that stream. Thus, in order to gain an advance for a single community a two fold injury is inflicted which affects a wide area and millions of people.

"Engineering Blunder"

The dilution system of sewage disposal now employed by Chicago which was at the time of its introduction nearly 30 years ago, deemed both expedient and practical, must today be regarded as the most gigantic engineering blunder of its time. Its early projectors erred in that they ignored the rights of their neighbors and the law of the land.

Chicago now, however, presents the brazen spectacle of undertaking to induce the national Congress to sanctify a bold theft into an honest act.

To defend a blunder and seek to compel its perpetuation at the expense of others is an unpardonable sin and to defend injustice, and that is exactly what Chicago is doing.

When the defenders of the Chicago water diversion realized the paramount question at issue was navigation, they immediately claimed the 10,000 cubic feet per second formerly demanded for sanitation are necessary for the operation of a proposed nine foot barge across the state of Illinois. Anything in excess of 1,000 cubic feet is unnecessary for channel navigation.

Lake Levels are Low.

The levels of the Great Lakes are at a lower stage today than they have been since such levels have been recorded. It is beyond dispute that the Chicago abstraction has contributed to this lowering.

The United States Supreme Court has held that any abstraction from the Great Lakes "affecting the natural level or flow of boundary waters, is expressly provided against by the international treaty with Great Britain of January 11, 1909 without the approval of the international joint commission and without the consent of Canada as well as the United States."

Seven states have presented and there is pending before said tribunal the question whether Congress has power to grant or give away any natural resources to benefit one section of this country to the injury of the other.

We deny the propriety of granting the right in perpetuity to such abstraction by inaugurating compensatory works of doubtful expediency.

If the several cities on the Great Lakes were to divert the lake waters in the degree now being done by Chicago, the integrity of the Great Lakes as a navigational highway would be impaired.

Dedicated to Navigation.

We hold firmly that waters of the lakes are dedicated to the use of navigation and while they may be used for domestic purposes they cannot be diverted or for power purposes to such a degree as to injure navigation. The diversion at Chicago has contributed nothing to navigation but to great injury on the lakes.

Be it resolved:

That the Secretary of War be requested to require the sanitary district of Chicago installation, within reasonable time, of a modern system of sewage disposal, and one whereby the abstraction of lake water may eventually be deemed unnecessary.

That we protest against any legislation at the hands of Congress, that may sanction diversion affecting the water levels of the Great Lakes, and thus impair the commerce thereon which not only serves single states but the nation as a whole.

DRUG STORE IS ROBBED OF FOUNTAIN PENS

Pens Valued at $100 Taken from Thos. Sullivan's.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

The Thomas Sullivan drug store was entered this morning between 1:30 and 2:30 o'clock and the stock of valuable fountain pens valued at about $100 taken. Entrance was gained by jimmying the lock on the front door. The key to the fountain pen case which is equipped with an automatic lock was hanging over the cash register and the intruder evidently knew of its location and unlocked the case emptying it of its contents, locked it up again and replaced the key.

The cash register which contained about five dollars in change was also emptied of its contents, but the stock of drugs was left undisturbed.

Officers Bohnstiel and Kelly tried the door at 1:30 this morning and then proceeded west to the Utilities company office building and on their return discovered the robbery, which they reported to Mr. Sullivan at once. At the police station this morning, it was stated that a good description of the suspect, who had been loitering about the business district for a few days, is in the hands of the officers.

Wirig, who operated the camp at which the fatal stabbing occurred, was the first witness on the stand, and it was during his examination by the defense that the charge was made.

RETRENCHMENT ORDER HAS HIT THE POST OFFICE

Lessened Appropriation By Congress Hits Service.

Retrenchment has struck the Dixon post office, and likewise has handed a wall to every post office in the country. The news of this retrenchment was received Wednesday by the local office from Washington, D. C., and it means economy for an indefinite period. Congress cut down the appropriation for the post office department, and the money available for the operation of the Dixon office for the next few months, perhaps for the entire year, will be greatly curtailed. Postmaster John E. Moyer and Vernon Shrock, superintendent of mails, have been engaged in rearranging schedules in order that the local collection of mail in the business district will be made at 6 p. m.

The department has notified Postmaster Moyer that in the future no allowance can be made for time lost due to sickness. In the past, it has been possible to take care of salaries of clerks who have been ill out of an auxiliary fund. The latter is only sufficient under the new allowance to take care of vacations. These will be continued, but the department can not obligate itself to pay the regular salary if time is lost by sickness and substitution are called in. In case of the sickness of a clerk or carriers it will be necessary for the others to do what they can to get the mail delivered, entailing the least possible extra clerk or carrier hire.

Every office in the country is hit by this retrenchment measure and it is up to the local postmaster and his assistants to work out their own salvation. Postmaster Moyer is calling in the assistant postmaster and superintendent of mails and they are working things to the best advantage of all concerned. The amount of inconvenience and delay caused by this new order will depend largely on the cooperation of the public in general.

MAN "DROWNED" 11 YEARS AGO IS ARRESTED TODAY

Henry, Ill., Man, Supposed Buried; Charged with Bigamy.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 16.—"Drowned" eleven years ago and "laid to rest in St. Valentine's cemetery" at LaSalle, Ill., Louis Lentz, a highway patrolman at Henry, Ill., is under arrest at Henry on charges of bigamy. He is said to have admitted marrying a widow eight years ago and has lived at Henry under his right name ever since he was reported drowned May 3, 1914. The man fished out of the river at LaSalle, eleven years ago was identified as Lentz by his first wife. Lentz' arrest was caused following investigation by his stepson Louis, after a quarrel. Louis, his suspicious aroused; conferred with Chief of Police Rothoff of Peru and the chief, who worked on the case eleven years ago, went to Henry and immediately identified Lentz who claimed that he was separated from his first wife before the drowning incident and that he knew nothing of the identification of the body. The first Mrs. Lentz is said to have rewed seven years ago and is thought to be living in Chicago.

Police were skeptical over the identification of the drowned man, but Mrs. Lentz describing a broken bone around her neck, peculiar marks on the body vouched that it was that of her husband who had been missing for two years. A coroner's jury substantiated the identification and the body was buried as that of Louis Lentz. There were services at the St. Valentine church in LaSalle.

YOUR EYES REFLECT NEGLECT AND AGE!

No Woman So Beautiful She Cannot Be Improved, Says Mme. Georgette

BY MME. GEORGETTE
No list of good resolutions for 1925 is complete without this simple one: "I'm going to be more beautiful."
That fits every daughter of Eve, too, because there is no woman so beautiful or so attractive that she cannot be improved.

But if you take my advice, you will not rely entirely upon cosmetics and creams, for they won't do the trick alone, but you will begin your Greater Beauty Year by realizing that beauty is a combination of the mental and the physical, not merely an accident of birth.

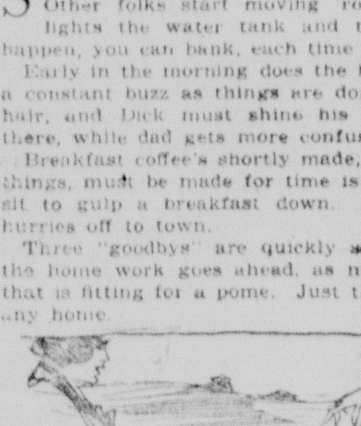

I grant you, the easiest way to be beautiful is to be born that way. But if you weren't, you needn't sit back and let natural-born beauties inherit the earth.

Check Up on Yourself
You will look firmly and critically at your reflection in the mirror, take stock of your assets and liabilities and formulate your own system of double or single entry beauty keeping.

If you have a good complexion naturally, you won't need to do more than keep it well cleansed. If your skin is sallow or looks unhealthy, you will consult a doctor and have him prescribe the proper diet for you.

If the lines of your face droop and sag, you will realize that your mind is sagging a little too—that you need new confidence in yourself, new thoughts and new enthusiasms to keep your face animated.

If you see a network of small wrinkles about your eyes, you will know you are straining your eyes and need glasses, or that your worries get the better of you.

Until you correct your facial defects mentally, that is until your correct the mental faults that are destroying the purity and beauty of your face you cannot expect massage or creams to have any permanent value for you.

To Improve the Eyes
But mental rejuvenation includes the proper care of your features. Probably the first signs of neglect show themselves about the eyes, and it is the uplifting of that region we will take up today.

First cleanse with a cleansing cream. Knead the cream well into the skin so as to get all the dirt from every pore. Then wipe off all the cream, rubbing lightly, using upward strokes.

Then dip your fingers in a massage cream, and beginning at the center of the forehead with the third and fourth finger of each hand follow the territory about the eye with very gentle, molding strokes, following the circular outline several times, then bring the fingers upward through the temples, as shown in the diagram.

This relieves the strain and keeps wrinkles and crowfeet away. To remove the furrows between the eyes, move the fingers very gently across in long, oval strokes. At the corners of your eyes rotate outward and upward toward the temples.

After a Hard Day
If you have had a hard day, dip little pads of cotton in warm water and a mild astringent and let them remain on your eyes while you lie flat on your back, relaxed, for 10 minutes or so. This will tone up the skin around the eyes so their sparkle will be revived.

Give your eyes a bath frequently in an eye cup with an eye wash, and brush your eyebrows and lashes with a tiny brush to keep them well shaped. If the brows or lashes are thin, use a little vaseline or warm olive oil on them, being sure that none gets into the eye.

Your eyes show neglect and age sooner than any other feature. Take care of them!

Prairieville Social Circle Had Meeting

The Prairieville Social Circle held a big meeting Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Straw, north of Prairieville. As it was in the nature of a housewarming in the beautiful new home, as well as a regular meeting of the circle, the husbands of the members were invited to take part.

When the big scrambled dinner was ready to serve at 1 o'clock eighty people were present, including thirty-one members of the circle and the men and children who came with them. The dinner itself was an event, the redundant supply of good things to eat that were brought by the members being augmented by roast chickens supplied by the hostess as her portion.

Following the dinner an address was given by Representative John Devine of Dixon, who explained the proposed child labor amendment to the federal constitution and declared himself in opposition to it on various grounds, one of which being that he does not believe in the government controlling the children's activities in matters which, in his opinion, are the proper concern of the parents. The members of the circle had been discussing the subject and Representative Devine came at their invitation to address his meeting.

A business session of the circle was held at which the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. Fred Brauer, president; Mrs. Carl Straw, vice president; Mrs. Ira Rutt, secretary; Mrs. Emory Overcash, treasurer. The president will appoint the standing committee at the next meeting, which will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Alfred Stock, north of Sterling on the Stock road.

Not the least pleasant feature of the enjoyable meeting of Wednesday was the inspection of the beautiful new home of Mr. and Mrs. Straw. It is an ideal country home with all of the conveniences of a modern city residence. A gas plant supplies gas for cooking, electricity provides light and power for operating household conveniences, there is a complete system of plumbing throughout the house, with running water, a furnace warms the entire building and the decorative features that make a home attractive are to be found in all departments of the home.

LOVE, HONOR AND OBEY—
I heard a voice calling, and it came from afar,
I looked up into Heaven, and the gates they stood ajar,
I saw within the splendor of precious souls above,
I heard the Angels singing, of Jesus and His love,
I saw my dear old mother there and friends that were worth while,
They sat beside the Savior, and each one wore a smile;
It filled my soul with gladness, and it thrilled me through and through,
To see such wondrous glory, ever beautiful and true,
I knew 'twas not a vision, for I heard my Master say,
"You, too, may live with Jesus, if you love, honor and obey."

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—
Use Egg Beater.

Use a small egg beater when stirring ring gravy and there will never be any lumps.

Prevents Shrinking.
To prevent woollens from shrinking hang them out on the line dripping wet without wringing them.

Removes Stains.
If a scorch stain is not too serious it may be removed by rubbing bread crumbs over the stained portion.

If Shoe Pinches.
If a new shoe pinches, dampen a sponge with very hot water and hold it over the part that hurts. It will cause an expansion of leather that will bring relief.

Pulling Threads.
Before trying to pull threads in linen run a damp piece of cloth along the line where the thread is to be pulled.

Remove Finish.
If a floor is badly stained the old finish should be entirely removed before a new one is put on.

To Shine Windows.
Put a little vinegar in the water in which you rinse the windows and they will shine marvelously.

BOOK NIGHT AT THE METHODIST CHURCH—
Sunday evening at the Methodist church the pastor will deliver a Book Sermon using as the text "The Doctor" by Ralph Connor. This is an interesting story with a splendid message. The Young People's chorus will sing and the orchestra will furnish special numbers.

Menus for a Family

Breakfast—Stewed figs with lemon juice, whole wheat cereal, thin cream, poached eggs on toast, cornmeal gridle cakes, sirup, milk, coffee.
Luncheon—Creamed asparagus on toast sandwiches, apple dumplings, milk, tea.
Dinner—Boiled mutton, steamed rice, creamed turnips, left-over fruit salad, Roquefort cheese water crackers, rye bread, currant jelly, milk, coffee.

The apple without the enfolding dough should be served to juniors under school age. While the father will undoubtedly insist on giving the "baby" the entire dumpling, the wise mother will be calm but firm in her decision. The dumpling is rather difficult for four-year-old tumblers to digest but the apple, either baked or steamed, is perfect for them.

Creamed Asparagus on Toast.
One medium sized can of asparagus, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 1/2 cups milk, yolk, 1 egg, 6 triangles of toast, salt and pepper.

Turn contents of can into a colander and dip into a large pan of cold water. Drain gently to prevent breaking heads of asparagus. Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Season with salt and pepper and cook until thick and smooth. Heat asparagus over hot fire and arrange on hot buttered toast. Add egg yolk to cream sauce, remove from the fire and beat well. Pour over asparagus and serve at once.

If this dish is not planned especially for children, strips of canned pigmento are quite an improvement.

Winter Salad.
Two cups shredded cabbage, 1 cup diced celery, 1/2 cup minced cooked beets, 1/4 cup grated raw carrots, 2 teaspoon sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 6 tablespoons oil, paprika.

Let shredded cabbage stand in cold salted water for 1 hour. Drain and rinse in clear cold water. Drain for five or ten minutes before mixing. Combine cabbage, celery, beets and carrots. Add sugar and crush slightly with a wooden potato masher. Add salt and lemon juice and stir well with a silver or wooden fork. Add oil and beat with fork. Arrange on salad plates and sprinkle with paprika.

Apple Dumplings.
Six apples, 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 cups flour, 2 tablespoons butter, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, about 1 cup milk.

Pare and core apples, being careful not to break them. Put sugar and 1 cup boiling water into a sauce pan, add apples and simmer until apples are tender but perfectly whole. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Work in 2 tablespoons butter with tips of fingers and cut in milk to make a soft dough. Roll on a floured molding board to 1/4 inch thickness and cut into squares large enough to cover the apples. Put an apple in the center of each square of dough. Fill core cavity with butter, 1 teaspoonful for each apple, and the sirup boiled down thick. Sprinkle with cinnamon and pull the dough over the tops of the apples. Press the edges tightly together. Bake twenty minutes in a hot oven. Serve warm with cream.

These dumplings can be steamed instead of baked. If steamed, serve as soon as taken from the steamer. (Copyright, 1925, NEA Service, Inc.)

Lutheran Choir to Amboy Sunday Night

In response to an urgent invitation from the Amboy M. E. church the adult choir of 25 voices of St. Paul's Lutheran church of Dixon, of which Mrs. E. M. Goodsell is director, will go to Amboy Sunday evening to sing George Nevill's supreme cantata, "Adoration," which they presented so excellently here during the holiday season. The choir will be assisted by Roy Long of Amboy and Mrs. Reddy and A. M. Rawls of Dixon, with Miss Mary Hinta at the organ.

Civic Music Assn. Held Big Meeting

The Civic Music association which met in Chicago last week was attended by a large number of delegates from the seventy-two towns already in the association, which is but three years old. The delegates most loyal to the new movement for securing good music for communities were from towns longest in the association, who knew most about the benefits of co-operation, which is the center of the membership idea.

Selling tickets to concerts by artists known or unknown often means loss to all concerned. Selling memberships in a civic music association means the co-operation of the artists who need the public, the public that needs the artists, and the managers who bring the artists and the public together. It involves, on the part of managers, acquaintance with over seven hundred artists and their attitude. It means contracting for twenty or thirty performances of a single artist and giving these performances in a restricted territory in order to cut overhead expenses for the manager and to secure a greater number of appearances for the artist in a given time. It means building for musical appreciation, brings to attention the coming artists, readiness on the part of the public to receive these young artists who need only to be heard to be acclaimed.

At the luncheon given for the delegates, the manager of the Chicago Civic Opera company and many local artists appeared for a few minutes to set the seal of their approval upon the movement, and not only did they most generously sing in opera, without fee, in order to help finance the conference, but other great artists were ready to do likewise. If a performance could have been arranged including them.

The idea of advancing the cause of good music by a membership organization instead of a ticket selling organization is new and it is the way to success and permanence, because it brings to the public such a service as the public has never known, and those most in its favor are those who know most about it.

H. S. P. T. A. to Help Boy Scout Movement

Nearly a hundred and fifty members of the high school Parent-Teachers' association enjoyed an exceptionally interesting and beneficial meeting at the Central school building Thursday afternoon, and prior to the meeting fifty-eight mothers visited the school and witnessed the work being done.

During the business meeting of the association the children of the second grade, Miss Rudolph, teacher, sang four selections, which were enjoyed, and Dr. L. R. Evans spoke of the Boys' Scout work and the plans of the G. R. C. to enhance that work. The association voted to cooperate with the G. R. C. in any way possible. Miss Bertha Bennett, supervisor of music in the schools, spoke of the value of music in the schools, and following her remarks the association voted to sponsor a musical-memory contest. Plans were also made for a membership campaign to be conducted after the semester examinations of the pupils are out of the way.

Says Women Need Political A. B. C.'s

Joliet, Ill., Jan. 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—Most women need training in the A. B. C.'s of politics and the league is a feeder for all political parties, asserted Mrs. James W. Morrison, president of the Illinois League of Women Voters, in an address before the local Business and Professional Women.

"Women must be made to see why, in what way many laws vitally touch them," Mrs. Morrison said. "This cannot be done by a party. There must be a suitable place for this study. It cannot be done in schools or churches."

"Welfare laws are essentially a woman's job; they have the day by day experience of the needs of children. This was this point of view that influenced women to fight for suffrage. It is not that men love their children less, but they see less of them and realize less what is of real importance to them.

"No party adopts measures without sensing a real wish for them. This feeling must be developed outside of parties. Most of the legislation in which women interest themselves is not of a political nature; it needs the support parties."

"The League organizes citizenship schools to help people realize what citizenship means, gradually going more deeply into question of importance. Eventually they put the material before the public."

Mrs. Morrison stressed the importance of the early environment of the child, which included the ill effect upon children of work unsuited to their physical strength, such as work at heavy and dangerous machinery, night work, long hours and in mines, and the child's health of vital importance to the nation.

"As for the Maternity and Infancy bill, men cannot adequately understand the importance of suitable legislation along these lines, she said. "It is from actual experience that women do understand. That a mother and child should have proper care is of vital importance to the nation. It is because of the lack of this care we have many of the inmates of our institutions."

Manuel and Williamson in Piano Recital

A recital for two pianos is the highly artistic and distinctive musical offering presented by Philip Manuel and Gavin Williamson, premier concert recitalists.

They appear Monday evening at 8:15 o'clock in the next number for the Dixon Civic Music association, in recital at the Family theater. There is much interest in this number which will be most unique as well as exceptionally high-class.

The art of playing duets for two pianos was accorded high recognition as early as two centuries ago by that grand old master, Johann Sebastian Bach. Besides Bach's contributions to two-piano literature, Mozart also added several examples of wonderful tonal beauty and appeal.

With the passing of these two great music masters, two-piano playing decreased in popularity for a time. In our own day, however, we are witnessing a revival of this delightful art, and various noted modern composers, among them Saint-Saens and Hindy, have given us masterpieces in this form of musical expression.

A. & R. S. Sewing Club Has Meeting

The A. & R. S. Sewing club of St. Patrick's Catholic church had a most enjoyable meeting Thursday at the home of Mrs. Allan Fane, 322 Woodlawn avenue, with Mrs. Edward Fane as assistant hostess. The next meeting of the club will be held Thursday, Jan. 22, at the home of Mrs. Phillip Kelly, 310 Peoria avenue, with Mrs. Otto Peters, Mrs. James Reynolds and Mrs. Roy Withers as assistant hostesses.

Happy Day Spent at Hamilton Home

One of the most enjoyable meetings of the Kingdom Mt. Union Aid society held in the mid-winter season, was that of Wednesday, when twenty members of the society and eight visitors were entertained at the attractive home of Mrs. John Hamilton and daughter, Mrs. Claude Guyan, 613 Ottawa avenue. A bountiful picnic dinner at noon was greatly enjoyed, the hostesses serving baked ham as the meat course.

The business meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Brink, who read the fifteenth chapter of Corinthians, followed by a hymn, Mrs. Grobe presiding at the piano. A piano solo by Mrs. Harold Dusing of Grand Detour was a feature of the afternoon. She played "Nola" for her first number, responding to the encore with "Mighty Lak a Rose." Two humorous readings were given by Mrs. L. L. McGinnis, which were heartily applauded.

Blooming plants were presented to Mrs. Ivan Floto and Mrs. Hamilton in honor of their wedding anniversary, which occurred within a few days of the society's meeting.

It was announced that the election of officers would be held at the next meeting, the place to be announced later, and a good attendance is imperative at that meeting.

Wednesday's meeting closed by all repeating the 23rd Psalm, the guests leaving for their home with memories of a most pleasant day.

Entertainments Planned for Next Friday Evening

Lee Center—W. J. Smith of Dixon was here Monday soliciting subscriptions for the Dixon Evening Telegraph.

R. E. Ambler of Franklin Grove, representing Stark Bros. nursery called on residents Tuesday.

Abigail Rebekah lodge, No. 769 will hold its annual installation Friday evening.

Miss Jennie Oakes returned Monday from the Lincoln hospital at Rochelle where she has been for the past 13 weeks. She is much improved in some respects but complications are still giving her trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Biessecker entertained about 20 of their young married friends with a party Thursday evening. The time was pleasantly spent with cards and listening to the radio. The hostess served delicious refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. Biessecker will hold their closing out sale the 21st as they are leaving the farm and may locate in Rockford. They will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends.

The M. W. A. basketball team motored to Dixon Friday and played the Y. M. C. A. Intermediate coming back jubilant with a score of 17 to 11. John Carlson and Bruce Lyman departed Monday for Rockford to look for positions. Their many friends hope that they may be successful.

Lodge No. 148 A. F. & A. M. installed the following officers Friday evening:

W. M.—Dwight Mynard.
S. W.—Harold July.
J. W.—Russell M. Shaw.
Sec.—L. E. Lippincott.
Treas.—R. A. Hillman.
S. D.—Don Wellman.
J. D.—Paul Roberts.
S. S.—Harold Frost.
J. S.—Andrew Aschenbrenner.
Marshal—Morris July.

Tyler—A. J. Carlson.
Past Master C. A. Ullrich and Morris July were the installing officers. District Deputy Grand Master Lee Road of Dixon was present and gave an interesting talk. Light refreshments were served after the ceremony.

Two large timber wolves crossed the yard near the barn on the farm tenanted by John Vivian recently and disappeared into a corn field. Harold Vivian hurried after them with a shotgun but was unable to overtake them. Other hunters here have been out in quest of the wolves but so far have not been successful in shooting any.

Bruce Lyman was honored with a surprise party by a large number of friends Thursday evening, who came to assist him to celebrate his eighteenth birthday. Games and stunts provided a joyous evening and refreshments were served. Bruce was presented a gold pencil and fine writing portfolio.

The high school under the direction of Miss Beatrice Westlake, English instructor, will present two one-act plays: "Uncle Dick's Mistake" and "Who's Crazy Now" in Woodmen hall Friday evening, Jan. 23. These are entertaining plays full of fun and comical situations. The proceeds are to purchase a radio for the school.

Mrs. L. E. Lippincott will entertain the Missionary Society at her home Thursday afternoon, Jan. 22. Mrs. S. E. Dishop will be the assistant hostess. Mrs. James Degner will be the leader and the subject will be, "The Negro."

ONE THIN WOMAN GAINED 10 POUNDS IN 20 DAYS

Skinny Men Can Do the Same

All weak men and women
All nervous men and women
All skinny men and women
Can grow stronger, healthier and more vigorous and take on solid needed flesh in 30 days just by taking McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets four times a day—as easy to take as candy.

And what a hit these flesh producing tablets have made. One druggist tripled his sales in one week. Everybody knows that nasty-tasting evil smelling Cod Liver Oil is a wonderful vitalizer, flesh producer and health creator.

But who wants to swallow the horrible stuff, when these wonderful tablets—McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound tablets, are just as good and so easy to take.

A box of 60 tablets for 60 cents and if any skinny man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days—money back. Ask Rowlands Pharmacy, Dixon and Rochelle, or any good druggists anywhere in America.

Be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine, and don't forget there is nothing on earth so good to make backward, listless, underweight children grow strong and robust.

PLANES vs. SHIPS.

An aviation enthusiast declares that any battleship "can be sunk with comparative ease by airplanes." True enough, and it might be added that any airplane can be brought down with comparative ease by fire from the guns and auxiliary planes of the battleship. The all-important proviso in each instance is that the battleship or the airplane must be hit by a projectile big enough to do the trick, and the victor must get his blow in first. All of which means nothing except that both battleships and airplanes are important adjuncts of our defense system. There is no proof that either would vanquish the other under actual war conditions.

President Coolidge is commander-in-chief of all our military forces and as such is taking an eminently common sense view of the airplane-battleship controversy. He advocates a well-rounded navy and adequate appropriations for construction, experimentation, and operation of air fleets. As each may gain a temporary ascendancy in attack, the other is likely to evolve a corresponding improvement in defense, precisely like the competition between big guns and armor. It may be that new inventions will some day put surface vessels completely at the mercy of air fleets, or vice versa, but until such an evolution has been conclusively demonstrated it is folly to follow any other policy than that adopted by President Coolidge.

RUNNING.

A distinguished American editor scoffs at the speed of Nurmi, the great Finnish runner, because a motor car can go faster and keep it up longer. He thinks Nurmi's remarkable racing in New York is of very little use.

This is a shallow view of the matter, inspired by undue zeal for mechanical progress. Such an argument is sufficiently answered by the thrill that comes to every normal human being when he sees a magnificent athletic feat or reads an adequate account of one. It is enthusiasm that pushes humanity ahead, and there is no enthusiasm in a gas engine, though a certain kind of enthusiasm can make or use one. A steel piston moving up and down within a steel cylinder, under the impact of a gasoline explosion, is a poor substitute for a human heart, as far as real human values are concerned.

The human race at its best is athletic. This is not saying that athletics is the best thing about the human race, but that periods of highest achievement seem inseparable from athletic activity and admiration for physical prowess. Genuine vigor of mind and soul seem to require vigor of body. History shows that as men degenerate physically, they start degenerating morally and mentally too.

Body and soul, somehow, go together, upholding and reflecting each other. So the whole civilized world instinctively turns from its dry scientific triumphs to draw new force and inspiration from a fine exhibition of this ensouled machine we call the human body.

BEAR.

Russia is mining only 31 tons of coal for every 100 before the war. She is producing only 9 tons of pig iron for every 100 pre-war. These figures, which appear to be authentic notwithstanding that they deal with Russia, are from the Russian newspaper Rul.

Russia is an agricultural rather than a manufacturing nation. So more illuminating, as to her general condition, is the U. S. Department of Agriculture's estimate that Russia's 1924 crops total 46 million tons of grain. That is enough to feed her—if properly distributed, which is unlikely in view of her broken-down transportation system and general economic machine.

SCHOOL DENTAL CLINICS.

The public spirited action of the Dixon dentists in their establishment and support of dental clinics in the public schools of the city should receive recognition from the parents of local school children. The clinics, held in the schools on both sides of the river this year, are carrying on the good work started last year. Local dentists give their time without charge and periodically examine the children for defective teeth, noting where dental work is needed and calling the attention of the parents to the necessity of such treatment.

Bad teeth are often the cause of general poor health in a child. They also cause stomach trouble, rheumatism, under-nourishment, etc. They may cause a child to be backward. They will affect the child's disposition. They may easily so affect the child's health as to retard and alter his entire life.

The dental clinic hunts out the defects. Parents should heed the warnings in the notices and see to it that defective teeth are cared for.

MAN'S INHUMANITY.

Killed and missing in the World War, according to statistics just issued by the League of Nations totalled 8,204,000. It is staggering figure. What a crushing result of man's inhumanity to man! More than eight million men taken out of industry, taken from the fields and shops and professions, never to return. And the cost of killing these millions which mounted into the billions of dollars, leaves a burden whose weight the nations will feel for generations to come.

Germany lost the greater number in killed and missing, 2,000,000. Russia lost 1,700,000, Austria-Hungary 1,542,000, France 1,400,000, Italy 750,000, Great Britain 744,000, United States 68,000.

The League gives the total mobilization as follows: Russia 15,070,000, Germany 13,025,000, Austria-Hungary 9,000,000, France 7,035,000, Great Britain 5,615,000, United States 4,272,000.

War is a rotten investment.

JAPAN.

Japanese begin to develop a deposit of a billion tons of iron ore in the northern part of their island empire.

A deposit of this size would make Japan independent of other countries for her iron and steel, which has both an economic military significance.

"Why, you poor things!" said the Fairy queen picking them all up and setting them in a row on Sally's bed.

"Do you know anybody else?" asked the Fairy Queen. "Anybody else who isn't happy?"

Nancy thought a minute. "I know a little girl who treats her dolls something awful," she said by and by. "She carries them around by the arms and even sometimes by the hair. And she never washes their faces at all."

"How dreadful!" exclaimed the Fairy Queen. "We had better go there at once and see about it. Tell Two Spots where to go."

"It's Sally Wiggleton," said Nancy to the butterfly. "She lives in the city on the corner of Orange street and Walnut avenue."

"All right," said Two Spots flapping his blue velvet wings with the rose-colored edges. "Stick on tight, everybody, I'm going to start."

Away he flew over fields and forests and ponds and little villages with the Fairy Queen and the Twins sitting comfortably on his black velvet back.

The Fairy Queen was driving, but then she had to much driving to do because Two Spots knew every place and everybody.

Very soon they came to the city. They had to go up narrow streets and back ways, for a great blue butterfly with three passengers on his back would be sure to attract attention.

By and by they came to the corner of Orange street and Walnut avenue and Two Spots settled on the roof of the garage so as to be perfectly safe. From there they could see into Sally's room where she was playing house.

RADIO, CLIMATE AND FOOTBALL

Public regulation once had to be forced on public utilities against their wills. Now they are demanding it of themselves.

When the war authority of the California Power Administrator expired, the companies promptly hired the same man to regulate them by consent. Secretary Hoover is trying an even more novel way with the newest industry, the radio.

With little or no law, the industry regulates itself. Doubtless these regulations should ultimately have legal sanction, but they will be practically self-imposed, even then.

Everybody is for regulation, now, even the regulated.

Every report of eastern blizzards tempts the Californian to boast. Eastern football teams, playing in Californian New Year's Day complained of the heat and brightness of the sun.

Nobody were an overcoat in the bleachers; the grass and trees were green and the roses were blooming.

Climate is not everything, as we Californians are inclined to imagine, but it is much.

Forgive us if we get the superiority complex in California when we read of blizzards and zero weather, or of chaws and mud.

Fifth Avenue has its superiority complex, too. And Fifth Avenue may be right. But so are we. And, somehow, we prefer Yosemite.

Those football games, by the way, played in the great modern stadiums, tempt one to consider the archaeological of the future. A modern concrete stadium is likely to last longer than the Coliseum.

There will never be any temptation to quarry it. The rubberneck splendor of the twentieth century will say: "On your left you see the ruins of Kent Hall, the small building where they taught law, justice and the institutions of civilization."

"On your right, the mountainous pile which fills the landscape is the Stadium where they held their gladiatorial combats."

GERMANY'S SYSTEM SETTLES NOTHING

Read of the tribulations of Germany, you who would substitute blocs for parties in America.

The Germans have had two elections within a year, neither of which settled anything, though the people voted right both times.

With the multi-party system, the decision is made, not by the vote of the people, at the election, but by the trading of politicians afterward.

No party ever has a majority in the Reichstag. The coalition, after the spring election, lasted barely long enough to squeeze the Dawes plan through, by buying votes for a consideration which it proved impossible to deliver.

And at that very instant she had a doll across her knee spanking it. Then she shook it until you could hear its eyes rattle.

"Oh," cried Nancy. "My, my, she's no mother at all!" said the Fairy Queen. "I do think we came just in time."

"Oh, dear!" Sally yawned suddenly. They could hear through the window. "I'm tired of dolls. They're a nuisance. I think I'll go out and skate."

And she stood up suddenly and the doll on her knee fell to the floor—thump right on her nose.

When she had gone the Fairy Queen said "Come."

What with her wings and the magic shoes the Twins wore, they had no trouble at all.

And in a very little while they were standing right in Sally's room amongst all her dolls.

There were about fifteen.

"Why, you poor things!" said the Fairy Queen picking them all up and setting them in a row on Sally's bed. "Now tell me all about it."

"She's pulled half my hair out," said one.

"If you life my dress you'll see that I've lost a leg," said another.

"I've got pneumonia," croaked another. "She stuck me in a bowl and never dried me. My insides are soaked."

They all had a grievance.

"You don't have to stay here," said the Fairy Queen. "I will give each of you a wish. Think hard, all of you!"

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

BY AHERN

THE MAJOR &amp; JAKE PUT ON A BROTHERLY ARGUMENT

New York—Fifth Avenue is probably the best policed street in the world. Day and night it has police in towers to direct traffic and one policeman at every corner for the same purpose during the day, some corners having as many as five traffic cops on duty during the rush hours. At night there are patrolmen whose beats take in only a block and a half of the avenue and none of the side streets. Despite all of this precaution Fifth Avenue has been the scene of many daring robberies.

Al Jolson is back on Broadway. Many of his jokes wear whiskers, but a few seem new. One of these is about the lucky golfer he played with in England. "My, he was a lucky man," Jolson relates. "I never saw a man so lucky. He was so lucky he struck oil at the second hole."

Jolson works for Lee and J. J. Shubert. J. J. is "Jake twice," according to the comedian.

The late Sam Shubert, a brother, was the theater pioneer of the family. After operating a minor theater chain in upper New York, he came to Gotham 25 years ago and bought

WOULD HANG ALL BOOTLEGGERS

A British enthusiast proposes the death penalty for bootlegging.

He need not bother about imposing it. It will impose itself, soon enough, if the bootleggers consume their own stuff.

And some of them are imposing it on each other, in gun fights over the stuff.

Like the Chinese army, whose men are soldiers when the government extorts their pay from the people and bandits when they extort it themselves the booze runners are bootleggers and hijackers by turn, according to which law they violate to get their goods.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist, Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

In the lower East Side, Two kids quarrel. The younger challenges the other to fight and the challenge is accepted. "What grade are you in?" asks the challenger. "3-B," answers the other. "Ah, you're in a higher grade'n me. I won't fight yuh."

Other lads told me that it is the unwritten law of the East Side that a boy can refuse to fight a boy in a higher grade in school with no loss of prestige. His reason for fighting and his size have nothing to do with the case.

The by-laws were adopted and the following officers elected: Elders: R. C. Brundage and W. B. Rankin, retiring elders, elected to succeed themselves with H. C. Downer, Dr. C. P. Clark and Lincoln A. Deacons: Arthur T. Guest and Martin V. Peterman elected for 3 years. Clarence Oakley and Mrs. A. B. Elmer for 2 years, and Mrs. Ida May and H. C. Clawson each for one year.

The office of deacon is newly created and the duties are to look after the ushering, the sick and destitute, take up the collections and look after the communion elements.

Secretary of Finance: James Grievie Walker, acting secretary, was elected to succeed himself.

Treasurer: A. B. Sheadle, acting treasurer, was elected to succeed himself.

Officers of the Sunday school elected: Superintendent—J. M. Daubenspeck, Assistant Supt.—Arthur T. Guest, Supt. of Primary—Mrs. Harvey J. Phelps.

Secretary—Miss Hazel Eckhardt, Asst. Secy.—Miss Margaret Sheveland, Treasurer—Miss Louise Van Artsdale, Pianist—Miss Margaret Gardner, Asst. Pianist—Miss Ruth Comstock, Chorister—Floyd Blenfang.

Librarian—Garland Lind, Supt. Home Dept.—Mrs. Ida May, Supt. Cradle Roll—Mrs. Curtis E. Lang.

Time of the annual meeting was changed from May until January.

Southworth & Tigan, prominent breeders of Hereford cattle, were successful in winning a number of prizes at the International Live Stock Show held in Chicago. Out of nine head exhibited they carried away fourteen ribbons, one bull winning four different prizes.

A three year old bull won third prize in a class of about thirty which were exhibited from nearly every state in the union and from several herds in Canada.

The second prize Senior calf, which won in a class of over forty, was sold to James Beremen, millionaire freckle cream manufacturer, who operates a large stock farm near Aurora. From these two prize bulls, the prize pair of bulls won third place. This gives a breeder a chance to show his two best bulls and when an exhibitor is successful in winning a prize of third place in this exhibit, it is considered exceptionally good.

The get-of-sire represents four calves sired by Woodford 49th, Southworth & Tigan exhibited all young animals in the get-of-sire, and the two breeders who won first and second, exhibited aged cows and bulls. Inasmuch as there was so much difference in age, this was an excellent showing, possibly much as in winning the first prize.

It is also interesting to know that the Junior steer calf stood fourth to the steer that was finally proclaimed grand champion of the show over 1,500 steers exhibited.

The Junior Yearling bull was sold to head a herd at Howe, N. Dak., and according to information received by Eugene R. Tigan, they are now negotiating with one of the judges present at the International Stock Show from South America on the sale of their prize cattle. A heifer was sold to a breeder in Ohio. They contemplate putting on a sale about the middle of February at which time they will dispose of some of their prize cattle.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Presbyterian church will hold a dinner in the church parlors, Thursday evening, January 23rd. The January February division are in charge. Mrs. C. P. Clarke is the new president of the ladies aid society.

Mrs. and Mrs. F. J. Guest, of Wadena, Minn., are expected in Rochelle the latter part of the month enroute to Miami, Florida, to spend the balance of the winter with their son, Cyril and family. They have been delayed by a severe illness of Mrs. Guest, who is convalescing from a gall bladder attack. They will be unable to leave Wadena before the 15th of then and will visit relatives in this city.

The Mens' organization of the Presbyterian church of which Floyd Blenfang is president will hold a supper in the church parlors Tuesday evening, January 27th.

M. A. Countryman, who has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Jennie E. Countryman, returned to his home in Ames, Iowa, Wednesday.

The Presbyterian church have completed a new garage to go with the pastor's manse.

PITY THE POOR RICH BOY! HIS CHANCES ARE LIMITED, SAYS JOHN THOMPSON

BY ROY J. GIBBONS
NEA Service Writer

Chicago—Don't envy the rich boy. Pity him instead.

His chances for success are limited because he hasn't learned the great lesson of self-denial.

If you are poor and made of the right stuff you'll pass the wealthy one one the road to worth-while attainment.

This, providing all things in the matter of heredity and character are as near equal as they can be.

So believes John R. Thompson, multimillionaire chain restaurant and grocery magnate, whose places of business today dot the continent.

And significantly, he is a parent, too. His boy he calls "the best in the world."

"Yet," says Thompson, who 25 years ago possessed little more than a dollar and today thinks nothing of paying $250,000 for a famous painting, "the man who steps into another man's shoes has never learned the full value of money."

Must Learn Self-Denial

"Success means self-denial. The rich man's son has little chance to learn this.

"Take any rich boy. He may be the finest lad that ever lived. Works hard and tries to learn a business.

"But what chance has he to succeed? How can he be taught the lesson of self-denial and the value of money?

"If he were poor he would be saving and denying himself. Because he is the son of a rich man he does a natural thing—he spends.

"In the true sense of the word conserving what another man has made is not real success. But it is a near equivalent. Success means creative work—doing the thing yourself—building up from nothing.

"Poor boys need not envy rich boys. Inherited money holds back success.

"Poverty inspires success. It provides the incentive—the push and go necessary for victory.

"The boy with everything needs nothing more. The boy with nothing, ing, if he tries, can taste the fruit of victory. He can experience what the rich boy may not."

JOHN R. THOMPSON

Coffee Was Terrible.

Thompson's rise in the world of finance is one of the wonders of the past century. He came a poor young man from off a farm near Eltham, Ill., to attend the World's Fair in Chicago.

With his wife he dropped in at a tiny restaurant for breakfast.

The coffee was unusually poor, Thompson complained to the proprietor, saying: "I can make better coffee than that myself."

"Think so?" the proprietor challenged.

"Sure," Thompson shot back.

So He Bought Place.

And that's what Thompson did. It was a shoe-string beginning and took every nickel that he had saved or could borrow to swing it.

Today that original restaurant has developed into a chain system. You can find a Thompson restaurant in every big city of any importance anywhere in the country.

Thompson succeeded because he had vision. His motto has always been small profits on quality merchandise. He is ruled by the square deal.

Today he is 58 and only recently spent $500,000 for a group of six early Italian paintings.

He is spry, kindly and is the first to work in his central offices housed in his own office buildings here.

"Money has long since lost its meaning for him. It represents only success.

And that success came "because I once was poor and was urged on by the self-denial that few rich men's sons can learn," he says.

SCHOOL TAX OF FARMERS IS OUT OF PROPORTION

So Says LaGrange Man at I. A. Meeting in Urbana.

By Associated Press Licensed Wire

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 15—Recommendation that industries be taxed for school purposes, in proportion to the number of families they bring into a community, G. W. Willett, principal of Lyons Township High School at La Grange, told the Illinois Agricultural Association in convention here today, that the small high school, as it has been developed in Illinois, is a very expensive institution.

Mr. Willett was commissioned to make a thorough investigation of tax problems in connection with education by the association and his report was made from data gathered through questionnaires and visits of an investigator to a large number of Illinois counties.

Costs per pupil in the small high schools often run above $175 and in some cases as high as $550, Mr. Willett reported, despite the fact that many such schools do not give accredited work.

"Such a condition," Mr. Willett said, "is not an argument for a more liberal system of credits, it is an argument against make-believe high school educations. If the farmer in the non-credited district wishes his children to continue their education, he must not only pay unusually heavy taxes, but he must pay tuition so that his children may attend some school outside of the district, that is accredited."

Paid Heavy Tax

"In one district, it was found that the farmers living in the farthest corner of the district had actually paid $10,000 for every pupil from their locality that had graduated from the high school."

"Farmers not only pay the greater burden of the taxes, according to our conclusions, but they reap less benefits from the schools than does the city tax payer. In the 222 districts examined the rural assessment was 68 per cent of the total, and the percentage of pupils from rural districts was 38 per cent of the total. In other words, the city is educating more pupils in our high schools and paying less to do it than the farmer pays for his smaller number of pupils."

A re-organization of the system of assessing property was the first great step toward correcting these evils, Dr. Willett said, and he added that this should be accomplished by a complete tax readjustment. Until this is done, he said, there is little chance of lightening the farmers' unduly heavy tax burden, and equalizing educational opportunity.

Paige-Jewett Engineers Offer New Smoothness—New Ability—New Comfort—New Silence—New Beauty—and

Permanent Perfected Performance

Prepare for Progress. There is a New Paige and a New Jewett. They outperform in every way our previous best. And you know what that was—

Paige official stock chassis records stand unbeaten. Jewett has won hundreds of hill-climbs. It seemed impossible to better such performance. But now—comes another step forward. We have not only bettered it. We have perfected that performance—have made it so smooth, so ready, so many-sided, so lasting that today's engineering knowledge can offer no further improvements.

New smoothness so perfected that vibration is not detectable at any speed! Thanks to new, costly balanced crankshafts. Noiseless motors have been produced by improved silent chain drive and other refinements.

New road smoothness and comfort come from new springs designed for balloon tires. New handling ease from ball-bearing, special-gear steering. New safety with perfected hydraulic 4-wheel brakes. And finally new beauty of bodies and equipment maintains for the New Paige and the New Jewett their style leadership.

Fear No Follies. This perfected performance is built around six-cylinder motors. Sixes—for their inherent balance and economy. Sixes—because our 10 years' specializing has perfected them beyond need of complications. And the engineering of the world's costliest cars agrees with ours.

Paige-Jewett motors are of exceptional size. Ample power is produced without "racing" them. They last long because geared moderately and never overtaxed.

Permanent Performance—perfected to new excellence—that is the keynote of Paige-Jewett engineering.

So we have retained these long-proved features, refined where possible: the Paige-Jewett clutch of saw-blade steel that neither jerks nor stalls the motor; the transmission that permits changing from high to second at 30 miles an hour; universal joints—with sealed-in oil that lasts 15,000 miles, so no wear, no back-lash.

We are building today not only the ablest, easiest handling and truly comfortable cars, but cars whose fine qualities stay and stay and stay.

Paige and Jewett are alike in this new performance. Jewett gives it to you in a car of convenient size. Paige, in a bigger car—with the added advantages of greater size and power.

All these new advantages cost you nothing more. Paige and Jewett prices have not been increased. Judged by comparable cars—both the New Paige and the New Jewett are underpriced $150 to $200.

With assets of $15,000,000, an enormous new plant, and the most modern machinery—our sixteen years' experience is showing results as never before. We stand ready to prove it in a demonstration whenever you say.

TWENTY-FIRST INSTALLMENT

"Surprised, hey?" asked Captain Lefe with a wheeze that was louder than any wheeze should be. "Well, now, where's the other one?"

"The other what?"

"Ain't there two of you boys?"

"Yes. Me and Jo. He's home to-day."

"Where'd you set down?" asked the old man abruptly. "Somewhat relieved, Admah led into the rear room and brought out two kitchen chairs. The one which Uncle Lefe accepted creaked under his dead weight."

"I've often heard Ma talk about you," said the nephew, for the visitor was gazing into space as if awaiting the next move. "She's been dead over ten years."

"Don't say so!" He tried to cross his legs, but changed his mind because the major portion of Captain Lefe was in the way.

"Pa's dead too, I reckon you know that."

"I guess I do." Uncle Lefe spat into a distant wastebasket. "I ought to know. I paid for the funeral."

"This should have touched Admah's pride, but he only smiled. In the quaint personality he seemed to see his father whom he had known and loved so short a time."

"I guess I've passed this place a dozen times," said the old man as though no other topic were on his mind. "and to-day's the first time I looked up. And when I seen the name Holtz I says, by ginger, I wonder if them ain't Matty's boys gone into business. Holtz is an odd name round this town. Hum." He wheezed and spat again. "So Matty's dead. God rest 'er bones, she was a woman! I only seen 'er once after marriage, but say she had Henry newin' like a kitten under a stove. Why didn't you folks look me up when you come to town?"

"I went to your house once. They said you'd moved."

"That stone shack on West Inness Street? Hol!" He laughed until the candy-makers turned, giggling nervously. "Why I ain't been in that place for thirty years. Sold out to a real estate sharp who thought the town was movin' that way. I knew it wasn't. So I packed up and went into the hog business. Ever hear of Dell's Landin' hams?"

"Why, Captain Holtz?"

"Uncle Lefe, son!" He cracked his nephew painfully on the knee.

"Uncle Lefe, everybody knows about Dell's Landin' hams. I reckon you don't mean to say—"

"Yes. And Dell's Landin' country sausages. We ain't no rivals to the Peake family when it comes to wealth and social refinement, but I guess yer Aunt Brownie can show 'em a few tricks about cookin' a ham. Got a car?"

"I've got a Ford," Admah admitted.

"Good. Married?"

"No, sir."

"The other one married?"

"Jo? Yes, he's married."

"Don't cotton to yer sister-in-law, do you?"

"Why, she's a very nice lady—"

"Come, boy! I guess if he mounted to much you'd-a-hauled 'er into the conversation before this. I don't think I'll ask Jo to supper on the farm till I've looked over his wife. . . . Wives, you know—here he dug his nephew with a crafty thumb, "have got to be handled with kid gloves."

"I reckon so," said Admah.

"You'd know so, if you had one."

Uncle Lefe closed one eye slowly, carefully like a lid over a hot coal.

CHAPTER 37

Admah chose Tuesday for his evening with Uncle Lefe Holtz. Tuesday was favorable, because Mrs. Jo, thanks to the trained nurse whom her brother-in-law had engaged at his own expense, had released her husband for night duty at the store. The hog farm occupied a twenty-acre tract less than five miles beyond the colony of new Georgian and Tudor houses with which a raw plutocracy was crowding the hills along the River Embouled. Cold stars were hanging low and an October breeze rustled dry leaves in the stark water-side groves as the little car rushed northward toward a supper which—so Uncle Lefe had warned him—would be laid at six. Aunt Brownie, he was impressed, was a stickler for promptness.

The River Boulevard was off Admah's beat, but he always admired its air of spaciousness and worldly comfort. It had the best road in the district, and the roofs of fine dwellings, showing through bare, twilight boughs, satisfied some unexpressed longing in his heart. Power was falling away from the Saturns. Already bustling men—nobodies in origin—were amassing fortunes and living among the hills like landed gentry. In a wide brick mansion with clustered chimneys and curving drives mellow lights were showing from many windows. Here, as everybody knew, dwelt Mr. Stacey de Long, proprietor of the Hamilton Hotel. He had once been headwaiter in the same establishment. . . . A half further along he passed the Sycamore Club and slowed down a little, sating his curiosity. "Somebody don't there," he decided, for around the club-house, which nestled on a high bank overlooking the yellow stream, many motor cars were parked. Others were coming up. Through half open windows he could see the heads of the couples circling in that fashion which, to the non-dancing man, seems insane.

Beyond the club-house the road varied degenerated into a dirt road. It was a notoriously bad road, but it answered Uncle Lefe's description and brought him at last to a decent white gate with a well-painted sign:

DELL'S LANDING FARM

HOGS
SAUSAGES

Uncle Lefe in his shirt-sleeves stood on the porch of an Indian red house and deduced the autumnal breezes.

"You're late," he howled forbiddingly, although he crushed his nephew's hand in his great square paw. "But I've brought you a jug of Anderson Pearl that'll turn yer hair red. Hey, Brownie!"

This last in the voice of a deep calling unto a very deaf and very distant deep. The response was bird-like.

"Oh, Cap'n, has he come?" And out of the house waddled a little round woman with a little sharp nose and a little red blister on either cheek. "Land of love, is this Admah?" she cried and kissed him twice, smack-smack.

He stood blushing like a rose, for decent women always scared him a little. But he recovered rapidly when Uncle Lefe hauled him into a big homely living room which smelled of lard and pipe tobacco.

"Here's wishin' you," said the Captain, having poured two glasses half full. "And look here, Brownie! Ain't you havin' a sip? Jest to wet yer lips, baby."

"Jest a little bitty," begged Aunt Brownie. Wherefore Uncle Lefe brought out a third glass and poured substantially.

"Cute, ain't she?" he roared, endearing the little woman with his great beam of an arm.

"You'll git up to him," the good wife assured his nephew as she smiled adoringly up into her husband's small red eyes.

Then toasts were drunk to the family reunion. Admah took his hastily, choked and reached for water.

"Well, kiss my foot!" invited Lefe, somewhat annoyed at this craven display. "Yer Pa never took water with his. But hell, Brownie. What can you expect? That boy's in the candy business."

"It's a heap better than runnin' a saloon, I reckon," said Aunt Brownie. "Now you men folks set a spell and I'll put supper on the table. We ain't got much to-night, but what we got—"

She vanished into the kitchen, leaving Admah to stare up at a faded framed photograph on the wall. A group stood archly on a river pier. Many of the gentlemen wore very tall hats and very long side-whiskers. The ladies' skirts bulged in the back and their head-dresses were curiously small. Behind them all, circling like a snow-white rainbow, stood the wheel-box of an old river steamboat. "Senator Clay" showed plainly on its side.

"Oh, that's the boat—"

Admah began it, but his uncle broke gruffly in. "That's the boat. On to maiden voyage. This one here with the cap'n me—"

His stubby forefinger was pointing out figures in the shiny, tan photograph—"and the tail one with the stovepipe hat's the Mayor. There's the Lieutenant Governor—the smallest shrimp hidin' behind the big lady with the parasol. . . .

Yes, sir, the Senator Clay was a boat. Built for gentlemen and ladies to travel in. None o' yer Sunflower Social Club picnic tubs, paddlin' up stream for a sassa-parilla party in the woods. We carried folks. Yes, and we carried tobacco and corn and Presidents of the United States. Bahl!

What's the Senator Clay now? A cozy corner ferry-boat with a lot o' love-sick county-jumpers holdin' hands while a cally-ope—a steam cally-ope, mind yet—plays Every Morn I Bring Thee Violets.

"Phew! It makes me sick. If I had a million dollars handy, I'd know what I'd do? I'd buy old Senator Clay and take 'er out and sink 'er. Yes, sir. Sink 'er on a mud bar right off Pier One where she'd obstruct shipping and hold up a few of these Florida-water junks—"

"Supper's ready, sweetheart," chimed Aunt Brownie in a tiny voice which somehow managed to stop the Captain's flow of speech. "And, Admah, you mustn't notice what he says about the Senator Clay."

"I travelled on her once," said Admah, "and she was carrying freight then, and passengers too."

He failed to mention, how he had taken passage of where his voyage had ended.

Supper was served country fashion with everything set on the table. Aunt Brownie kept a cook in the kitchen, but all the work of the dining room she managed with her own capable little hands. Uncle Lefe mixed a toddy for everybody; meanwhile he ate enough for three and boasted like a pirate.

"Boy, did y'ever taste ham like that?" he volleyed and thundered. Indeed, his nephew was doing more than lip service when he praised the pink meat with its coating of cloves and bread-crumbs. It was drier than other hams and Aunt Brownie cut it into paper thin slices, which she laid in a pile on his plate. It had a forest flavor of nuts and aromatic roots and sweet herbs. With fat fried chicken it was adorable, and Admah could easily see why Uncle Lefe weighed his good three hundred pounds.

"I'm a Yankee," explained the captain over a huge helping of spoon-bread, "and Brownie's a Johnnie Reb. But it took a little feller like me to come down here and teach 'em South how to cure hams."

"A powerful lot you know till I told you," replied Brownie in her sweet little voice. "And he always forgets that cookin' half the secret."

"There ain't a rich man in the State gets the ham and sausage we have on our table every day," bellowed Uncle Lefe. "The Peakes and the Atterburys and the Carters have to put in their bids a year ahead of time to git my hams. Ain't that somethin' to be proud of? Hey?"

"I should say so, Uncle Lefe."

"Better than sellin' gum-drops over a counter, hey?"

"Don't mind what he says, Admah," whispered Aunt Brownie.

"You could o' fooled me with a straw," the Captain went on and wheezed at the recollection. "To find Henry's boys sellin' gum drops over a counter. Why didn't you raise hogs, boy?"

"Ma used to raise hogs," explained Admah, not at all offended. "She was glad enough to sell out and go into the candy business."

"Now there you are!" Just where they were he failed to explain—evidently he was following out some favorite line of philosophy. "That's the way she drifts nowadays. I've got two boys of my own—or had." His big voice softened a little at the last words. "I ain't kickin' about the way Stacey went. The Spanish war got him—dysentery at Key West. But what's happened to Bert? Married a high-falutin' dame who was too proud and haughty to be associated with a hog farm or a river boat. What then? Bert's makin' buttons in Chicago. Buttons!"

"Oh, that's the boat—"

He finished his toddy at one giant gulp.

"Nobody wants to stay in the backwoods and raise things that'll fill your belly."

"Ham and sausage ain't so awful healthy," Aunt Brownie observed pleasantly. "And I'd like to know what we would do without buttons?"

For Catarrh

With January and February slush and damp weather coming, a good remedy for catarrh will come in handy, thought Mr. and Mrs. Mann of Anytown.

Here are some remedies which were recommended to them by the doctor:

Pour a small amount of mixture of a teaspoonful of boracic acid powder, dissolved with a teaspoonful of salt, in a half pint of boiling water, in the palm of the hand and sniff it up the nostrils three times a day.

Another good remedy: One-fourth teaspoonful of soda, dissolved in one cup of warm water. Use with a spray, or nose cup, or sniff up into the nostrils.

Still another: Sodium benzoate, five grains; carbolic acid, one drop; glycerin, one dram; water, one ounce. Mix. Use by spraying or sniffing two or three times daily.

Gift Ties

Hal Cochran's
DAILY
POEM

WHEN you stop and consider your neckties, by heck, just think of the things that you get in the neck. Since Christmas day morning your tie rack has held freak ties, yet to wear them you're really compelled.

From Aunt Sarah Susie a greenish one came. Perhaps she just trusted that you would be game. No need to explain, the tie speaks for itself. It's one that you'd rather tack 'way on a shelf.

Another relation has sent you a rack a tie that's as black as they've ever made black. Why couldn't the thing been a livelier hue. The mournful affect's not appealing to you.

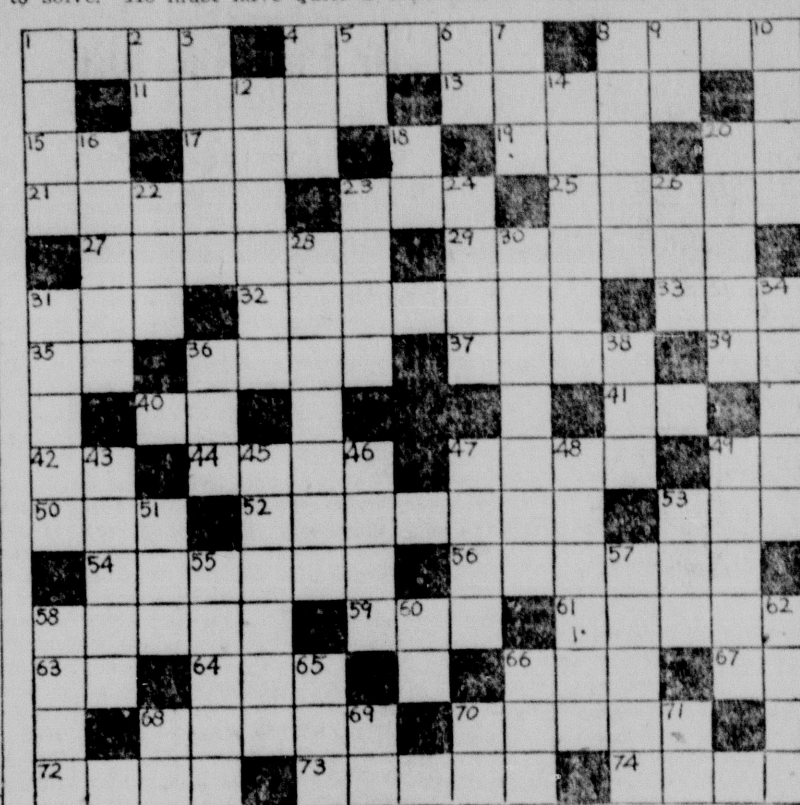

The ties that folks send you do presents and such are well meant, but never amount to so much. When they're purchased, no doubt, 'cause buying a tie is an easy way out.

Come look to your tie rack; now isn't that true? It's that way with me and it's that way with you. As Christmas ties wear, 'tis my honest belief that the wearing just brings you a sigh of relief.

Half the world is half asleep

Can success in life be undermined by constipation? Indeed it can. The poisons of this disease tire you out, wear you down, make you listless and make you lose interest in things in general. Ambition is most often prompted by a thoroughly healthy body. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings permanent relief from constipation.

He didn't have the energy to fight

LOST . . . another big order . . . the fourth defeat that day. All because he didn't have the energy to fight when his prospect said "No." Something had blunted his senses and stolen his strength.

That "something" was constipation. What a shame so many people suffer from constipation when there is an easy, pleasant, sure way to permanent relief—the regular use of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—two tablespoonfuls daily, or in chronic cases, with every meal.

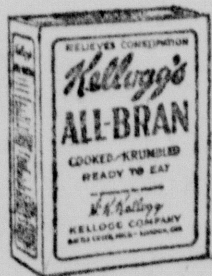

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is what doctors call a bulk food. As it travels through the system, its fiber remains unchanged. Therefore, it sweeps the intestine clean and drives out the vicious poisons of constipation. ALL-BRAN also absorbs and carries moisture through the intestinal tract, stimulating it to healthy, normal action. ALL-BRAN works as nature works.

Serve Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with milk or cream, sprinkled over cereals, or cooked with cereals; in soups, or made into the many recipes given on the package. Delicious with fruits too. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or your grocer returns the purchase price.

Caution! Be sure to get Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Only ALL-BRAN brings sure results. Kellogg's is the original and only ALL-BRAN. All grocers sell it. Leading restaurants serve it. Buy a package today.

NEWS
DIXONMID-WEEK S. S.
MEETINGS ARE GROWING FASTBoys' Gatherings at Y. M. C. A. Increase in Interest.

(By Murphy)

The usual Wednesday evening rally of the Teen-age boys Sunday School classes was held at the Y with an increased attendance, several new churches with several new classes being represented. If the increase in attendance keeps up as it has in the past few weeks, there will not be room enough in the newly enlarged banquet room to accommodate them all. Each church at these weekly scrambles has its own table or tables and after the supper a few songs are sung, an address by a business man is given and the classes then retire by themselves for discussion or study, followed by basketball in the gym and wound up by a swim in the tank.

The talk Wednesday was given by Dr. Burr who gave a chalk talk, or as he called it a "Talk with Chalk," on science, astronomy, wonders of nature, etc. Dr. Burr was very interesting and held the attention of his listeners every second while he told of the coming eclipse of the sun, of the discovery of helium, of the trip made by the Shenandoah, and many other interesting items, connected with the advancement of science.

The basketball game of the evening was played between the Congressional and Brethren Sunday schools with the Congos the winners. A Sunday school basketball tournament will be formed at the next meeting of the classes and this contest will be limited to four teams, the first four to register will be the four to enter the contest. The requirements of the tournament are: 1. Attend Sunday school and the weekly suppers. 2. Be not older than 19 years of age.

To register a team, all that is necessary is to turn in a list of players to the Physical Director at once. Teams should be organized at Sunday school or sooner and turned in by Wednesday evening. The first four to enter will be the lucky teams.

South Central Keep

Up their Fine Record

The South Central grade school basketball team was again victorious Thursday afternoon, maintaining their string of victories by defeating St. Marys in the Grade School Tournament at the Y by a score of 17-10. The usual large crowd of pupils and spectators was present and kept things lively up all the time with their cheering and cheering. The South Central started like a house afire and in the first half ran up a 12-1 score and everything seemed to be coming their way but in the second period St. Marys rallied and came back strong, playing the Centrals off their feet and in this session scored 9 points to their opponents. St. Marys started the rally too late however as the Centrals had run up too large a lead to be overcome.

ARMISTICE DAY
HURT BY QUAIL
HUNTING, CLAIMLegion Seeks Change
in Law; Opening
After Nov. 11.

Springfield, Jan. 16.—(By The Associated Press)—Postponement of the opening of the quail season, in order to assure better attendance at Armistice day celebrations in Illinois, is one of the pieces of legislation which the American Legion is preparing to lay before the Fifty-fourth General Assembly.

The proposal, which was made by Past Commander J. J. Bullington, is designed so that members of the American Legion, and others who will be tempted to miss the observance of the day, in order to get in some early hunting. The proposal was made to the last meeting of the executive committee of the Illinois department, and was turned over to the legislative committees for action.

The quail season opens November 10, immediately prior to Armistice day," Mr. Bullington said. "During the first three or four days of the quail season the woods and fields overflow with hunters, each one eager to get his chance at the same time the other fellow gets his. The result is that on November 10 and 11, those who might take part in the proper observance of Armistice day, by participation in patriotic ceremonies, are kept out as a matter of defense, fearful that a delay of a few days will give the other fellow a great advantage. This impedes the celebration in the smaller cities and downstate more than it does northern Illinois and the large cities.

"There appears to be no natural reason or logical argument why the quail season should open Nov. 10. Five or six days later would not spoil the shooting and it would help Armistice day. Our theory is that Armistice Day should be properly celebrated, and it cannot be properly celebrated unless all interested take part in the celebration."

Owner of Browns Admits
Club Is Sick, But Doesn't Need an Undertaker.

BY BILLY EVANS

Arthur Donnelly, wealthy St. Louis sportsman and prominent undertaker of that city, has several times tried to break in as owner of a major league ball club by bidding for both the Browns of the American League and the Cardinals of the National.

Phil Ball, owner of the Browns, can appreciate a joke, even if it is at his expense. At the time Donnelly tried to buy the Browns, the club was going badly and Ball was apparently disgusted with the proposition. The story finally broke in St. Louis that Donnelly had made overtures to ball for the Browns. It was impossible, however, to agree on the price. The deal fell through.

Later, when interviewed on the subject, Ball said to the newspaper men: "The deal if off. I realize the Browns are a mighty sick ball club but after much consideration I decided they were not quite ready for an undertaker."

When apprised of Mr. Ball's sizeup of the Browns it might be well to state this was three or four years back when the Browns were fighting to keep out of the cellar. Mr. Donnelly smiled and replied:

"My friends always refer to the Browns as a dead one, so I figured I would be right at home directing such a proposition."

Mr. Donnelly, however, still has the desire to buy a big league ball club if the price is right, but insists that he be handed a "live one."

BENNY LEONARD
RETIRE; WISH
OF HIS MOTHERLightweight Champion Announces He Will Fight
No More.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

New York, Jan. 16.—A dozen years ago a lad named Benjamin Leonard volunteered to take the place of a defaulting boxer at the old Fairmont Athletic Club in the Bronx. Last night he retired from the ring where he is known as Benny Leonard, the lightweight champion of the world.

In a statement announcing his retirement, Leonard declared he was actuated solely by the wishes of his mother. Always opposed to his fighting, Leonard said, his mother had renewed her pleading that he quit the ring and the condition of her health made it imperative that he accede to her wishes. It was decided he retire permanently.

Leonard, who has not been active in the ring since 1923, has held his present title for nearly seven years. After fighting his way through the ranks for five years following his first appearance, he faced on May 28, 1917, that king of defensive boxing from Great Britain, Freddie Welsh. The bout took place at the Manhattan A. C.

Knocked Welsh Out.

A few months previously, the champion Welsh had made Leonard appear amateurish in a Brooklyn contest and Leonard had outpointed Welsh in a battle in Madison Square Garden. This was the decisive contest. In the ninth round Leonard sent his right to a point behind the Britisher's left ear. Welsh staggered. Driven to a corner, the Britisher was forced to lower his hands and a stinging left sent him tottering and Leonard came in for the win.

Kid Lavigne captured the world title from Dick Burge, English champion, and brought it to America in 1896. It soon became the property of Ad Wolgast, who later bowed to Willie Ritchie. Ritchie made the mistake of going to England to fight Welsh and lost.

After winning the title more than seven years ago, Leonard met all comers and defeated them. Nine times he encountered the recently retired champion of the featherweights, Johnny Dundee, and several close battles resulted. After he became champion, he knocked out Johnny Nelson, Johnny Kilbane, Young Rector, Leo Johnson, YoYung Erne, Gene Delmont, Chick Brown, Willie Ritchie, Joe Malone, Jimmy Duffy, Mel Coogan, Charley White, Frankie Britt, Eddie Kelly, Joe Welling, Ritchie Mitchell, Rocky Kansas and Pinkie Mitchell. His victims before 1917 included Joe Mandor, Shamus O'Brien and Ever Hammer.

Lost to Briton on Foul.

He lost to Jack Britton in the twelfth round of a New York bout in 1922 on a foul, the referee ruling that Britton had been struck while off his feet. Way back in the days when he was starting his climb, Leonard was knocked out by Joe Shrugue and Frankie Fleming.

In recent months the retired champion has confined his activities to the stage and screen and is about to start on a long vaudeville engagement. Illness overtook him at a New York theater recently and he swooned as he retired to the wings after he had finished his act. He is not fully recovered from the attack.

The last year of Leonard's reign brought only "negotiations" with Mickey Walker, welterweight champion, as the prospective opponent. Twice scheduled, the bout never materialized, as the lightweight champion suffered an injured thumb in a victorious bout with Pal Moran in Cleveland during the summer and was unable to appear.

Last November Leonard issued a challenge to all lightweights who could prove their right to contend for the title and Billy Gibson, his manager, explained that the champion's inactivity could be laid to the death of suitable opponents.

In a signed statement today Leonard gave "Mother Love" as his reason for quitting the ring.

"The papers described how my eyes were split open, teeth knocked out, and hands broken and mother would read it and cry," Leonard said. "My mother has been very ill and I promise her I will never fight again."

Too True

Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM

I'll betcha, if you're married, you have staged a scene like this, and I'll betcha that you've done it more than once. I'm really sorta trustin' that the thought won't go amiss cause it's one of married people's little stunts.

It's early in the morning and you've just jumped out of bed, and the time is drawing nigh for dally toil. You'd really ought to hurry down to work but, shucks, instead, you're waitin' for the coffee pot to boil.

You loaf around the fireside while the chill wind blows without. It's just a bit of warning that you need. The paper's on the front porch, and you crave the thing, no doubt. It's nice to sit by open grates and read.

And then the talk commences, who shall bring the paper in? Just who will brave the chilly morning air? The mister asks the missus, she refuses with a grin. For tempting biting wafts she doesn't care.

"Oh, you go out and get it," is the way the line will run. But neither wife nor hubby cares to freeze. And so the paper stays upon the porch until the sun comes out to take the chilliness off the breeze.

Kid Stuff

Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM

THIS yarn is supposed to be just for the men, a story told over and over again. But what is the harm if I tell it once more—that men don't know just what clothes hangers are for.

Right neat in the closet the hangers will hang, a fact that dad knows, but don't give a dang. They're really a nuisance he figures, what's more, he'd rather just throw all his clothes on the floor.

His coat's on the davenport, all in a mess, where father can lay his hands on it, I guess. He just doesn't happen to be near a rack, when he enters the house and it falls off his back.

His hat and his gloves on the table are thrown, yet if he'd considered he'd surely have known that tired and worn mother more prudence deserved, for she'd have to move them when supper is served.

It's always the same, e'en when nighttime arrives, for all of the men have the time of their lives through being just careless and goodness but knows why dad never troubles to hang up his clothes.

Tomorrow

Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM

IT'S easy to wait till tomorrow with the things that you should do today. The waiting gas off leads to sorrow and you'll find that it seldom will pay.

We all have our tasks that need doing and those are the tasks that we shirk. It's worry and fret that we're brewing whenever we put off our work.

When things must be done, and you know it, it's best that you do them today. A trial of this angle will show it will always work out just that way.

Your tasks will bring real satisfaction and in them you'll really find fun, if only you'll swing into action and plug till they're thoroughly done.

To A Canary

Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM

WHAT are you chirpin' for little canary? Why are you feelin' so gay? Hoppin' around, you are quiet for nary a minute throughout the whole day.

Almost defenseless and frail as can be and yet you live on through the years. Often, it seems, you're a puzzle to me. Why is it your attitude cheers?

Will little voice with its warble so loud cheers anybody a bit. Maybe it's true, you have cause to be proud and reason to be as you fit.

Folks stand and watch you but miss the real tip as you're merrily singing all day. Right into song and you give them a trip but the benefit passes away.

Robbed of your freedom and held in a cage never to answer flight's call. Yet you are calm and ne'er fly in a rage and you sing on in spite of it all.

There is the lesson that folks ought to know. You can't always have the best breaks. But man can keep happiness ever aglow if the right sort of angle he takes.

Fall

Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM

CHILL is spreading; trees are shedding. Fall is with us now. Mister World is rather curled in wretchedness, somehow.

Meadow scenes that once was green has turned to dusky brown. Stalks of corn, in summer born, have died and fallen down.

Garden bowers of brilliant flowers are standing cold and bare. Warmth that was, is gone because there's chilliness in the air.

Every day, in every way, the scenes are changing fast. Lengthy day has passed away and nights much longer last.

Old Jack Frost cannot be bossed; he's dragged us in his den. Time has sped and summer's dead. The fall is here again.

A Dollar Bill

Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM

YOU have traveled o'er the country, Dollar Bill. And you've seen a lot of things that would surprise. Little stories you could tell us would instill some sympathy and open up our eyes.

In a poor man's pocket you've been tucked away. Just a dollar's worth of comfort to his mind. But, in such a place, how ready starts your stay, for you travel on and leave the man behind.

Mother's held you in her purse for just a day. Then you've transferred to the kindly butcherman. Little rests have come, and then you're on your way. What a help you've given to give where'er you can.

Both the hands of youth and wrinkled palms of age have caressed and kindly fondled you until you have reached the soiled and nearly worn-out stage. What a story you could tell us, Dollar Bill!

The Well Dressed Man
By BEAUNASH
Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

The Louder, The Smarter
Style continues to blow its bugle upon a single note, and that is the note of color. Men seem to have tired, once and for all, of the long restraint imposed upon them by custom and tradition, a restraint which has not irked My Ladye Fayre. She, indeed, has always robbed the rainbow for clothes combinations, whereas a man, far more self-conscious about dress than any woman, has been afraid to venture far from the safety of the primary colors. The noticeable vogue of bolder effects in men's clothes and accessories to-day is due to the development of a sharper sense among Americans for harmonious blending.

Not so many years ago, it was considered the height of style to wear a black scarf and a white shirt. To-day, the man who assumes such a combination argues that, like a glass of water, he has neither good taste nor bad taste, but no taste at all. Your mode of dress should express the character and personality of the wearer. This can only be done by choosing patterns and colors which reflect a positive theme, instead of an indefinite trend. Contrary to common belief, taste in color is not a rare or exclusive possession. It is acquired and perfected with slight practice. All you have to do is keep in mind one guiding color and have the rest conform to it.

For example, if you have on a blue suit or overcoat, brown or gray are excellent complementary or supplementary colors to act as a foil to blue. Add a gray soft hat with a black band, gray gloves and black shoes, and you get a combination of colors that is irreproachable beyond criticism. That is what is meant by exercising one's color sense. No matter of what fine materials your clothes may be cut or how meticulously they may fit, if they do not conform or contrast harmoniously in color the whole effect is nullified.

The bright-hued wool hose, reproduced here, are some of the rich new diamond designs now so smart to pair off with low shoes. These come in the celebrated "Fair Isle" patterns from the Scottish Shetlands, as well as in more modest effects. Gray, brown, green, Lovat mixtures, powder blue, Copenhagen blue, camel-and-white, gray-and-white, black-and-white—choose as you prefer.

enda Howard, Eugene Donald Grim, and Florence Margery Grim, two brothers and two sisters, S. H. Grim of Washington, Pennsylvania; Cooper Grim of Old Concord, Pennsylvania; Mrs. Mary Hayden of Dunlap Station, Pennsylvania; and Mrs. Lucille Winzert of Warren, Ohio, and a host of friends and patients who looked to him in the time of sickness.

For a period of forty-four years, lacking a few days, Dr. Grim labored unflinchingly as a physician in the community of Franklin Grove. His counsel was always wise and trustworthy and while a man of no humble pretensions he occupied a position of much importance in the community. His cheerful smile, and kindly word and ready hand to help at all times will be sadly missed in many circles both home and public. He was a Republican in party politics, but was always a man of convictions with few words. Fraternally he was a Mason belonging to the Blue lodge and Chapter, Franklin Grove, a member of the Eastern Star, and many other orders. He was also a member of the Lee County Medical Society, of the Rock River Medical Society, of the Chicago Medical Society, and International Association of Railway Surgeons. For many years up to time of his death he served as surgeon for the Chicago and North Western railroad at Franklin Grove. And so the Greatest Physician of all time works in a mysterious way his wonders to perform.

Funeral services were conducted on Tuesday, January 13, 1925 at 2:00 p. m. at the home in Franklin Grove by the Rev. Loyal V. Sitter of the Methodist Episcopal church, assisted by the Rev. C. W. Lahman of the Church of the Brethren. On leaving the home the service was in charge of the Masonic order.

CHAPTER XXVI
An Unexpected Mercy
PRESIDENT OSCAR FERN of the Wisconsin Bank was one of those persons who are envied not for their brains, but for their luck.

When he established his bank there was no competitor. As a matter of fact, people have a greater respect for luck than they have for intelligence. They respected not Oscar himself but for the quality which had fallen from heaven upon him. And as Samuel Carney, the lean

I told her that I did not care for the modern theater at all, that I had been brought up to feel that the sight of half dressed women and more or less drunken men was nothing that a decent woman should put herself in the way of seeing.

I would like very much to come over to Pittsburgh. I think that Leslie should consult me about arranging her house. She knows that I have been a housekeeper for many years and she has always admired my beautiful old colonial furniture.

Had she been really a daughter to me I had intended to give it all to her. But not knowing whether my cherished family heirlooms would look well in her scheme of household decoration, I of course cannot really feel that she would care for them.

You may tell Mrs. Alpert for me that I would rather not have a letter from my son it has to be dictated to her or to any other stenographer and I shall insist, John, upon your taking the time to write me in long hand in the future.

Affectionately your mother,

DAN BARRY'S DAUGHTER
BY MAX BRAND

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Finding the lifeless bodies of his two partners at their gold mining camp, Harry Gloster flees southward, knowing that he will be accused of their murder. On the way Gloster is jailed after getting into a fight with several men over a girl. Joan Barry, daughter of a famous rider of the old plains helps Gloster to escape. After eluding a posse, Gloster retraces his steps to Joan's guardian, Buck Daniels; they finally call a truce, however. Joan partly in sympathy to the call of wild life within her and partly in an effort to find Harry Gloster, joins a bandit gang in the mountains. Joe MacArthur, a quick-sneaking scoundrel, is made chieftain of the gang when he appears with a scheme to rob the Wisconsin Bank. New the gangsters are discussing Joan.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
"You've learned a number of new words, I see," said Dad Rainey, and smiled upon him deliberately, showing every one of his white teeth.

"I said that anybody could see that she was in love," remarked Lew Cambridge, leaving out his former emphasis.

There was a general murmur of assent, but Rainey answered: "Perhaps she does, I don't know. But for my part, I don't think she could love a man. She has a long-distance look in her eye."

"What the devil are you driving at now?" asked Babe Cooney.

"Nothing," murmured Dad Rainey, and went on with his work.

Yet he had said enough to make them all watch her like hawks when at length she was called in for her dinner. It was noted that Joe MacArthur did not sit down with her to the table, although as chief of the band he had the right to assume the place of host.

Instead, he wandered out of the house into the open, wearing an expression half strained and half gloomy as if he had been brought in contact with something which he needed time to think over.

She made herself as perfectly at home as if they were all old friends sitting at the table in her own ranch. She chatted away busily. She told them how she had won the black stallion, and then how he had brought her through the mountains, picking his own way, while she sat in the saddle and let him go where he would. She told them how he had watched her fish, and how he had stood over her and observed the process of building a fire and cooking with a scrupulous interest as if it were something which he wished to learn for his own sake.

Certainly there was nothing peculiar about her, except that she was more lovely, more native than any girl they had ever dreamed of, far less seen. And then, in the very midst of a sentence, she stopped speaking, straightened a little, and stared off before her. They glanced hastily around at the door. But it was empty.

"What is it?" asked Babe Cooney. His rough voice reduced to a whisper.

"Hush! Don't you hear?" she asked them.

They heard it then for the first time, the faint dissonance of wild geese crying out of the heart of the sky.

Fortified with this thought, he advanced more easily toward the bank and opened the door, whistling softly, as was his custom, through his teeth. He almost ran into the president himself as he stepped inside, and he gasped with a touch of horror. The swelling form and the rosy, smiling face of Oscar Fern might have been a nightmare. This was a whole hour earlier than the time at which the president generally appeared.

"What's wrong, Sammy?" asked Fern. "You look like the devil—all shot, for a fact. No sleep?"

"No sleep," muttered Carney, his eyes on the floor.

"This damned touch of hot weather was what did it," Fern declared; "kind of bothered me myself."

And he laughed apologetically, as if there was something ridiculous in the thought that anything could really trouble him in his sleep.

"What you need to do is to take a day off," Fern suggested. "Darned if you don't look hard hit!"

"A day off?" said Carney, seizing easily on grounds which would serve as a basis to work himself into an anger. "A day off? Where the devil would things be?"

The president caught his breath, frowned, and then looked somewhat agape over the head of his cashier.

"Dugoned if you ain't right, Sammy," he murmured. "Matter of fact, you never do take a day off, do you?"

"If a vacation came up and stared me in the face," said Carney, "I wouldn't know what to call it."

"That so?" I was talking to Green on the phone. He says it's true the P. L. and M. is going to build a branch line into the valley."

Carney listened with half his mind. It was not enough to turn the subject, but he brooded savagely on his injuries as he went on into his room. There had brought it on themselves, he vowed. And then he flung himself into his work with a savage energy.

But, in spite of himself, he found himself coming to a pause every now and then, his eye possessed with a fancy vision. He filed his lungs to the bottom fifth air. Then he came back and went at his work again.

The heavy footfall of the fat president entered the bank an hour and a half later. Oscar Fern kept Paris hours as far as the noonday meal was concerned, and Carney ground his teeth.

"You fat faced fool!" he snarled to himself. "You have the front. But who does the work? Who has the brains? Who's holding you up? I do it! I do it!"

Here there was a murmur from the little muffled bell in his room. It was a summons from the president, and he went in slowly, gathering up on the way two letters about which he must consult Fern.

He found Fern tilted back in his chair with his thumbs hooked into the armholes of his vest, his rubber heels on the top of the desk, and a fat cigar in his mouth. He was frowning at the ceiling and rolling the cigar from one side of his mouth to the other, champing at it nervously. He paid no attention to Carney as the latter entered.

"Here's another letter from Dundee about the terms," began Carney. "Darn Dundee!" said Oscar Fern. "I want to talk to you, Sammy."

"Heard a good yarn?" asked the cashier with a secret contempt.

"How much money have you saved?" It was a bolt from the blue. Perspiration stood out on Carney's upper lip. He wiped it away with the tips of his fingers.

"Why—a few thousand—"

"How's Agnes?" blurted out the president.

It made Carney start, almost rise from his chair.

"She's the same."

"You ought to get her out of town, Silence."

Epworth League Notes

Last Sunday evening the devotionals were led by Alberta Peterson. This meeting was the first of a series to be devoted to China, which is to be the subject of our Mission study class. Miss Peterson told us of many of the Chinese customs and described China's progress in an interesting way. China's civilization is a very ancient one, how ancient we can only begin to realize when we think of the advances she had made in civilization before other nations existed or the New World was even discovered. The first porcelain factory was started in England two hundred years ago but it is over two thousand years since the first Chinese porcelain factory was established. Silk worms were first brought into Europe in the sixth century but the Chinese knew how to raise silkworms before the days of Abraham. Learning in China was revered above all other things and her educational system is the oldest of government education known for it existed as far back as 2357 B. C. The story is told of a young man who when he made the statement that he was going to teach in a mission school of China, received the following reply: "Do you realize that the Chinese people have discovered and developed the most widely used staple food in the world, which is rice; they have discovered and developed the finest drink in the world, which is tea; and they have discovered and developed the finest cloth in the world, which is silk."

Julia Harris will conduct the devotional meeting next Sunday evening. Her subject, the second of the series on China, is "What New China Thinks and Does." Hour of meeting 6:30.
